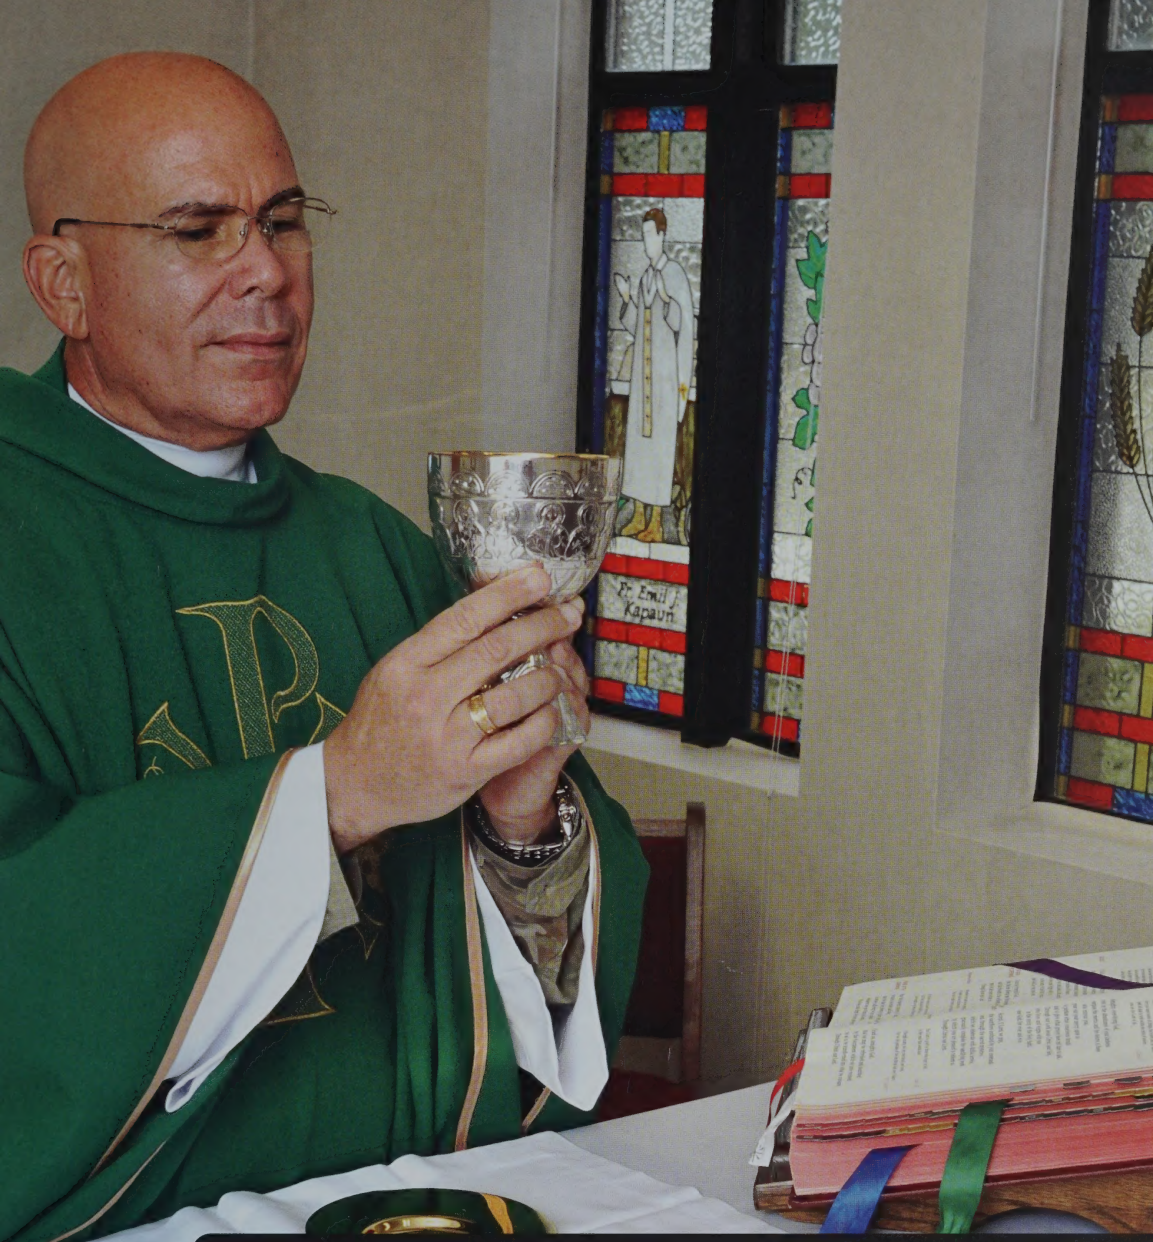
FOREWORD

It is with great pleasure that we present the 2018 edition of The Official Catholic Directory. For over 200 years, The Official Catholic Directory has provided comprehensive coverage of the institutions and clergy of the Catholic Church in the United States. To complement this data, we have included the 2017 Highlights, our annual recap of the key events impacting the U.S. Catholic Church over the past year.



The 2018 volume saw the advent of our new online updating system. It is part of our ongoing commitment to improve our service to the Church and provide better, more modern means to do so. We will augment and refine this new database to ensure the best possible user experience and also allow the Church greater access to the important information collected.

Although the U.S. Catholic Church has changed significantly over the past two hundred years, our core mission remains the same: to provide a thorough and accurate portrait of the Catholic Church in America and to continually improve this unique and valuable reference tool. This directory owes a debt of gratitude to the ecclesiastical authorities and diocesan officials who help make The Official Catholic Directory possible. We thank them for their cooperation and invaluable assistance.

Sincerely,

Robert J. Docherty

"Do not forget the poor!"

- His Holiness Pope Francis

We invite you to partner with Food For The Poor to answer our Holy Father's call. We never forget the poor. We provide critical support to the daily works of mercy of clergy, religious leaders and 102 Catholic Dioceses in primarily 17 countries throughout the Caribbean and Latin America. From building homes to feeding the hungry, Food For The Poor saves lives and renews hope for the destitute. A large amount of parishes in the United States welcome Food For The Poor each year. Trusting us as partners to help the poor are some of the highest ranking members of the Catholic Church in the regions where we work.

Leopoldo José Cardinal Brenes Solórzano, Archbishop of Managua (Nicaragua)
"I urge my brother Bishops and Archbishops around the world to join Food For The Poor and to open the doors of their dioceses to Food For The Poor. Under this union, they will efficiently respond to the Holy Father's petition of coming together for the good of the poor."

Robin Mahfood, Food For The Poor President/CEO, and his wife, Gail, meet with His Holiness Pope Francis.

Charles H. Dufour, Archbishop Emeritus of Kingston in Jamaica

Archbishop Fortunatus Nwachukwu, Apostolic Nuncio to Trinidad and Tobago, Antilles
"Food For The Poor is evidently a good channel for good-hearted Catholics who wish to learn of the severe needs worldwide, and who seek a reliable channel to exercise their personal giving or prayer and financial support."

Max Leroy Mesidor, Archbishop of Cap-Haitien, Haiti, puts it best:
"If Food For The Poor had not existed, it would be necessary to invent it."

U.S. Catholic Church 2017 Highlights

U.S. Catholics gathered in prayer, rebuilding, action in 2017

BY CAROL ZIMMERMANN

In 2017, U.S. Catholics joined in prayer to celebrate their faith, support those in a variety of needs and rejoice in the beatifications of two of their own.

The two beatifications were for American-born priests Father Stanley Rother of Okarche, Oklahoma and Capuchin Father Solanus Casey, born in Oak Grove, Wisconsin.

Blessed Rother was beatified Sept. 23 in Oklahoma City, becoming the first U.S.-born priest to become Blessed. Just two months later, on Nov. 18, Blessed Casey was beatified in Detroit.

Blessed Rother served as a missionary in Guatemala during its civil war when priests and religious were often targeted. The priest, who was attacked and killed in the rectory in 1981, had told his family he couldn't leave because "a shepherd doesn't run at the first sign of danger."

If the martyrdom of Blessed Rother "fills us with sadness," it also "gives us the joy of admiring the kindness, generosity and courage of a great man of faith," Cardinal Angelo Amato, prefect of the Congregation for Saints' Causes, said during the priest's beatification ceremony at the Cox Convention Center in Oklahoma City.

"In 2017, U.S. Catholics joined in prayer to celebrate their faith, support those in a variety of needs and rejoice in the beatifications of two of their own."

An overflow crowd of 20,000 attended the ceremony sponsored by the Archdiocese of Oklahoma City. The evening before a prayer service was held at St. Benedict Parish in Broken Arrow.

Archbishop Paul S. Coakley of Oklahoma City said he was grateful for the recognition of Blessed Rother's heroic witness.

"He gave his life in solidarity with so many suffering individuals and family who endured persecution for the sake of the Gospel. We pray the church will experience a new Pentecost and an abundance of vocations to the priesthood inspired by the witness and aided by the intercession of Blessed Stanley Rother," he added.

Nearly two months later, on Nov. 18, more than 60,000 gathered at Detroit's Ford Field for Blessed Solanus' beatification Mass.

"Others, above all the poor, were seen by him not as a weight or obstacle to his climb to perfection, but as a way to the light of the splendor of God," Cardinal Angelo Amato, prefect of the Congregation for Saints' Causes, told the crowd.

Countless others visited the Solanus Casey Center and St. Bonaventure Monastery in Detroit over the weekend to pray and leave prayer intentions at the tomb of a saintly friar who died in 1957 and was known for miraculous healings, intercessions and a compassionate listening ear.

True to Blessed Solanus' spirituality, a special VIP section of the main floor was set aside for those with illness and disabilities.

Father Michael Sullivan, provincial minister of the Detroit-based Capuchin Franciscan Province of St. Joseph, welcomed those in attendance, "especially those whom Father Solanus so loved -- the sick and the poor."

"We gather in gratitude for all of God's blessings and for all the ways in which God moves in our lives," Father Sullivan said. "What a witness was our beloved brother Solanus!

He opened his heart to each person he met, he prayed with them, appreciated and loved them, and through him God moved powerfully again and again. Thanks be to God!"

"His favorite sons were the poor, the sick, the emarginated and the homeless," Cardinal Amato said of Blessed Solanus, the Wisconsin-born priest with Irish roots and a whispery voice who served as a monastery doorkeeper in New York, Detroit and Huntington, Indiana, over his 60 years as a Capuchin friar.

"He always fasted in order to give them their own lunch. He spent hours upon hours patiently receiving, listening to, and counseling the ever-growing number of people who came to him," he added.

This year also marked the 100th anniversary of Mary's apparitions to the three shepherd children at Fatima.

Pope Francis marked the occasion by visiting Fatima, Portugal and canonizing two of the three young seers, Blessed Jacinta Marto and her brother Blessed Francisco Marto, making them the youngest non-martyred saints in the Catholic Church.

In Fatima, celebrations throughout the year marked the big anniversary but Catholics in the United States celebrated this milestone as well.

During a Sept. 23 celebration of the apparition's anniversary at the Basilica of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, Bishop Frank J. Caggiano of Bridgeport, Connecticut said that Our Lady of Fatima's message about prayer, conversion and peace that she imparted to three shepherd children in a field in Portugal "is as important now as it has ever been since," she appeared a century ago.

"No matter what challenge you and I face," Bishop Caggiano said in his homily, "the Lord will lead us through it, through the intercession of his mother, and to you and I struggling to be disciples, she is our model and guide."

A few months later, on Dec. 8, the Upper Church of the basilica was once again filled, but this time it was to celebrate the dedication of the Trinity Dome Mosaic -- the newly completed gold dome above the front central section of the Upper Church. It includes the words of the Nicene Creed encircling the base and a depiction of the Holy Trinity, Mary, the four Evangelists, angels and more than a dozen saints connected to the United States or the shrine.

Washington Cardinal Donald W. Wuerl pointed out in his homily that the mosaic tiles in the dome are symbolic of the living body of Christ regularly filling the pews of the shrine and reflecting the church's diversity. He said its completion finishes a work that began nearly 100 years ago when the shrine's cornerstone was placed in 1920.

When construction began on the National Shrine, as it was then called, Catholics across the country were invited to contribute however they could. Some donated pieces of gold jewelry and even precious stones, the cardinal said, which were fashioned into what came to be known as the "first chalice of the National Shrine" and was used at the Dec. 8 mosaic dedication.

Again, Catholic donors played a key role, contributing to the dome work which was done in Italy and shipped in 30,000 sections weighing 24 tons.

"This crowning jewel of Mary's shrine is really your work, your gift to the Blessed Mother," he said to the workers, donors and Catholics who had gathered at the shine.

During a year with natural disasters of hurricanes and wildfires, Catholics helped on the scene, donated money to support recovery efforts and prayed for those impacted.

The U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops collected $38.5 million for hurricane relief, Catholic Charities USA raised $24 million for disaster assistance. The Society of St. Vincent de Paul also was on the scene in hard hit

"Our Lady of Fatima's message about prayer, conversion and peace that she imparted to three shepherd children in a field in Portugal 'is as important now as it has ever been'."

"Walking out of that prayer vigil was a beautiful moment for me because of the lively spirit of those who came together... we can 'overcome evil with good' if we stand together"

locations coordinating its response through parish and diocesan councils. Other donors included Catholic Extension, which provided $400,000 in immediate support to the church in Puerto Rico following the hurricanes, and the Knights of Columbus, which pledged $1.4 million for church repairs in Florida, Texas and the U.S. Virgin Islands. The organization earlier provided $100,000 to the Archdiocese of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

In some devastated areas, Catholic churches were places of shelter and refuge and Catholic parishes provided immediate assistance and then got to the work of rebuilding.

When Hurricane Harvey ripped through the Texas Gulf in late August, it tore through St. Peter's Church in Rockport, Texas, leaving the small church that served the local Vietnamese community in ruins. The pastor, Franciscan Father John Tran Nguyen, said his parishioners lost everything -- their homes and their livelihoods.

A local business owner said he would simply have to start over and he said Father Nguyen would be a key part in the community rebuilding in the difficult years ahead.

"It's up to the preacher," he said, "He's the one who can pull everybody together."

In Las Vegas, a Catholic Church also became an immediate place of shelter after a mass shooting took place at a music festival just across the street from it on Oct. 1. Local Catholics joined in prayer and support for the victims and all those impacted by the tragedy.

Students at St. Viator Parish School in Las Vegas, just three miles east of the Las Vegas Strip, began school Oct. 2 by praying the rosary together in the school gym. A few students had attended the concert. One student who attended told his classmates his guardian angel had been watching over him that night. The parish organized a candlelight Taize prayer service Oct. 2 attended by several hundred people.

Local priests administered the anointing of the sick to some of the concert's wounded at hospitals. Parishes collected items and gift cards and parishioners donated blood.

Msgr. Gregory Gordon, of St. Anne's in Las Vegas, said the packed interfaith prayer service Oct. 2 at Guardian Angels Cathedral, coincidentally on the feast of the Guardian Angels, included many prayers for peace. He said he had never heard the song "Let There Be Peace on Earth" sung as loudly as it was it was that night, noting that it was as if it were "coming from the hearts of everyone."

Catholics also responded with prayers for peace after the white supremist rally and protests in Charlottesville, Virginia, Aug. 12.

Dominican Father Joseph-Anthony Kress, University of Virginia's Catholic chaplain said the Catholic community on campus gathered for a prayer vigil and rosary for peace the day after the rally that left three people dead and several wounded.

He said the prayer service was a chance to "be united in prayer in God's presence to ask for forgiveness and mercy and the strength to let his peace reign first and foremost in our hearts and in the community."

"Walking out of that prayer vigil was a beautiful moment for me because of the lively spirit of those who came together," he said, adding that he was full of Christian hope and believed from seeing the people there praying that "we can 'overcome evil with good' if we stand together."

At the annual U.S. bishops' meeting in Baltimore in November, Bishop George V. Murry of Youngstown, Ohio, who was then head of the bishops' Ad Hoc Committee Against Racism, said racial hatred was "on full display" at the Charlottesville rally. During the meeting, the bishops discussed how to raise the national level of discussion on racism and immigration starting in the church pews.

U.S. Catholics didn't just respond to major issues of the day in 2017, they also took part in rare events such as the total solar eclipse Aug. 21.

Parishes and Catholic schools located in the 70-mile-wide path of the total solar eclipse did everything from providing parking spaces or viewing sites to offering overnight retreats or all-day events with family activities or scientific lectures.

La Salle Retreat Center in Wildwood, Missouri, hosted an overnight retreat the night before the eclipse and invited the public to its grounds on the day of the eclipse.

Ryan Maderak, assistant professor of physics and astronomy at Benedictine College in Atchison, Kansas, directly in the path of the total eclipse, said: "This is literally the event of the century, and it is falling right in our laps." The college had a sold-out event the day of the eclipse with seating in its football stadium for viewing and free solar glasses to the first 7,500 at the gate. The big day included morning and evening Masses, family activities and a concert.

A Catholic parent volunteer at a Nashville Catholic school described the event as heaven for a science teacher. "We're going to see something that day that man can't re-create. We cannot duplicate with all our technology what we're going to witness. "

Throughout the year, U.S. Catholics responded in faith to what was happening in the world around them whether lifting their eyes to the heavens, praying and helping those who were suffering or turning to Mary and the saints for spiritual intercession.

They also looked to new ways to live out their faith and spread the Gospel message attending sessions during the year in preparation for major gatherings coming up in 2018 including the World Meeting of Families taking place in Dublin in August, the Fifth National Encuentro of Hispanic/Latino Ministry in September in Texas and the Synod of Bishops Oct. 3-28 at the Vatican to discuss young people, faith and vocational discernment.

A gathering of about 3,000 Catholic leaders in Orlando, Florida July 1-4 highlighted these upcoming events in keynote speeches and workshops.

At the event's final Mass, Cardinal Daniel N. DiNardo of Galveston-Houston said the church is called to achieve great things in the face of the impossible -- to unite people together by going to the peripheries of society and sharing the good news of Jesus through action rooted in faith.

"Sisters and brothers, we are in a very, very significant time in our church in this country," said the cardinal, who is USCCB president. He urged the delegates to receive God's grace for the work ahead.

Archbishop Christophe Pierre, apostolic nuncio to the United States, who attended all four days of the "Convocation of Catholic Leaders: The Joy of the Gospel in America," congratulated attendees for their invigorating discussion about the future of the church.

He called it a "kairos," or opportune moment, in the life of the U.S. church and said he would tell Pope Francis: "the Spirit is alive in the church in the United States."

Rosary Walk and Garden

Basilica of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, Washington, DC

As the visitor enters the Rosary Walk and Garden from the parking lot, the walkway descends through the Garden to a full-size sculpture grouping in hand-carved Carrara marble. The grouping depicts Our Lady of Fatima being venerated by the three children who witnessed the apparition: Lucia Santos, Jacinta and Francisco Marto.

A full size presentation of Christ on the Cross can be seen at a distance. As the visitor processes to this marble crucifix, on their left is the first of five Milford Pink granite arches of Rambusch design. Within these are presented the first mosaics of each of the Mysteries of the Rosary, for which Rambusch developed the sketches and full size drawings for the mosaics. These mosaic representations of the Mysteries of the Rosary are mounted within custom metal frames created in Rambusch's metal shop. The frames include an integrated illumination source for evening visits.

Rambusch was honored to be involved with the design and creation of the drawings and models for the sculptures in the Garden, and for the Mysteries of the Rosary mosaics. Over a two-year cycle of design submissions and refinements, Rambusch provided oversight of the hand-carved statues, the mosaic work and finally the delivery and installation.

All facets of the garden were considered ... from visitor circulation to prayerful encounter, and finally landscape plantings and elevations.

Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Catholic Church

Carmel, Indiana

A dedicated church community desired a more supportive worship environment within their 1970s building. Original mosaic artwork was a key element to success.

To unite materials and design details, a new tabernacle stand, and a new base for the existing Mensa took their visual cues from the existing ambo.

An integrated system of Rambusch lighting fixtures and a multi-scene dimmer now support all liturgies throughout the year, and is expandable for future needs.

The exemption was established in 1946 and has been extended every year since then.

THE OFFICIAL CATHOLIC DIRECTORY® GLOSSARY

Abbot
The superior of an autonomous community of men religious. He has general and sacramental jurisdiction over his community. The head of a prominent monastery or a congregation consisting of several monasteries is an archabbot.

Advocate
An ecclesiastical advocate is someone approved by Church authority to safeguard the rights of a party in a canonical process by arguments regarding the law and the facts of the case. [Cf. c. 1481 and CLSA Comm., p. 967]

Apostolate
Apostolate is the mission of Christ and participation in it. Its object is to bring Christ to others, its goal is the greater glory of God, its scope is universal. The work is carried out by every human agency by which the life of grace may be given or increased in the soul. A mandate from the Church is essential to the Catholic apostolate.

Archbishop
A bishop of a main or metropolitan diocese in an ecclesiastical province. The term is equivalent to metropolitan in the Western Church. It may also be granted to other ordinaries and non-residential bishops, and to the ordinary of a diocese outside a province.

Auditor
An official of a diocesan court, who gathers evidence and testimony and draws up a record of an ecclesiastical case.

Bishop
A bishop, by divine institution, carries on the work of the apostles. By reason of episcopal consecration, he shares in the triple apostolic function of teacher of doctrine, priest of sacred worship, and minister of church government. Bishops are responsible for the pastoral care of their dioceses. In addition, bishops have a responsibility to act in council to guide the Church. The term eparch is used in Eastern-rite churches.

The bishop to whom a particular or local church is entrusted is called a diocesan bishop or a residential bishop. Some other bishops receive Titular Sees over which they exercise no pastoral authority.

When the pastoral needs of a diocese or archdiocese warrant, an auxiliary bishop may be assigned to aid the residential bishop in governing his diocese. An auxiliary bishop is assigned when the residential bishop needs assistance in carrying out his duties because of ill health, advanced age, or amount of work. An auxiliary bishop does not have the right of succession within his diocese.

In special circumstances, such as the advanced age or ill health of a diocesan bishop, a coadjutator bishop may be appointed to assist the principal bishop of a diocese. Coadjutator bishops have the right of succession in the diocese of their appointment from the time the See becomes vacant upon the death or retirement of its bishop.

Brother
A man who is a member of a religious order, but is not ordained or studying for the priesthood.

Cana Conference
A Catholic family movement, originally designed to aid married couples and families in their spiritual and interpersonal relationships. The program is now divided into Pre-Cana, for couples engaged to be married, and Cana Conferences, programs for married people.

Catholic Fraternal Organizations
National Catholic fraternal organizations operating in the United States include the Knights of Columbus and the Knights of Peter Claver. These organizations are not included in the USCCB group tax exemption ruling.

Censor Librorum
A theologian empowered by a bishop to judge a book's soundness in regard to Church teaching before publication.

Chancellor
The office of the chancellor (or the chancery) evolved from the practice in the early Church of appointing an official to sign and preserve the letters of the bishop. The first function of the chancellor in the present day is gathering, arranging, and safeguarding the acts of the diocesan curia. Dispensations and other official documents also originate from the chancery. In many dioceses, the chancellor continues to exercise ordinary jurisdiction as delegated by the diocesan bishop. He or she may be assisted by a separate official, the vice-chancellor.

Chapter
The general chapter of a religious order is an assembly of elected or appointed members and provincials. General chapters are convened for the election of officers, amendments to the constitution, and discussion and legislation of matters of concern to members and the order as a whole.

A provincial chapter conducts elections and handles legislation on a provincial level. The assembly is comprised of superiors and representatives of the religious.

A chapter of canons is a group of diocesan priests, appointed by the bishop of a diocese, with assigned authority or responsibilities.

College of Cardinals
The College of Cardinals is made up of the cardinals of the Church, who advise the Pope, assist in the central administration of the Church, head the various curial offices and congregations, administer the Holy See during a vacancy, and elect a new Pope. There are three ranks in the College of Cardinals, corresponding to the historical origins of cardinals in the Roman Catholic Church. All cardinals are bishops, but their rank within the College of Cardinals is characterized by one of the hierarchical ranks of bishop, priest, or deacon. Cardinals are given honorary title to churches in the city of Rome. [CF. c. 350; CLSA Comm., pp. 288-289]

1. Cardinal Bishops

There are two types of Cardinal Bishops: 1) those appointed by the Pope as titular bishops to one of the six suburban dioceses of Rome, and 2) Eastern-rite Patriarchs who are heads of Sees with apostolic origins that have been assigned to the College of Cardinals.

2. Cardinal Priests

Heads of Sees outside the city of Rome are assigned a "titular church," one of the churches in Rome. They have no pastoral authority over their titular church.

3. Cardinal Deacons

Cardinals of diaconal rank are bishops without Sees who head the various departments, offices, congregations, committees, and the Secretariat of State of the Roman Curia.

Confraternity of Christian Doctrine [CCD]
A lay organization established for religious education throughout a person's entire life. The term is currently used to describe Catholic parish-based religious education of children from kindergarten through high school. At the diocesan level, the offices are now more commonly known as offices of religious education or Christian formation. Nationally, the confraternity's religious education component has been taken over by the USCCB's Department of Education. It still exists as a separate entity under the USCCB Administrative Board, with responsibility for licensing religious and spiritual literature.

Consolidated School
The term, as used in the Directory, may refer to a school that takes students from more than one parish, or a school that was formed by the consolidation of two or three other schools. In both cases, it is a means of keeping a Catholic school in a given area open by taking students from the surrounding areas, regardless of parish boundaries.

Convent
In common usage, the term refers to a house of women religious. Originally, it referred to a building where members of religious institutes lived, and was not restricted to communities of women.

It seeks to convey a new sense of individual and organized apostolic action. The program, conducted by priests and laypeople, consists of a three-day weekend focused on prayer, study, and Christian action, and a follow-up program known as the post-cursillo.

Deacons
The diaconate is the first order or grade in ordained ministry. Its origins are in early apostolic times, when deacons preached and baptized under the direction of the presbyters or bishops. Any man who is to be ordained to the priesthood must first be ordained as a transitional deacon. Deacons serve in the ministry of liturgy, of the word, and of charity.

In 1967, Pope Paul VI reinstituted the Permanent Diaconate for men who do not plan to become ordained priests. Although men ordained as permanent deacons are sometimes referred to as "married deacons," the permanent diaconate is open to both married and unmarried men, with the understanding that after ordination, they may not marry even after the death of a spouse. Under the authority of the diocesan bishop, they perform the same functions as the transitional deacons while, at the same time, retaining their roles in society as family and businessmen.

Dean/Vicar Forane
The title of a priest appointed by the bishop to aid him in administering the parishes in a certain vicinity, called a "deanery," or "vicariate forane." The function of a dean, or vicar forane, involves promotion, coordination, and supervision of the common pastoral activity within the deanery or vicariate.

Defender of the Bond
A member of a diocesan tribunal, either a cleric or a lay person, holding a graduate degree in canon law, who is appointed by the diocesan bishop for cases concerning the nullity of sacred ordination or the nullity or dissolution of the marriage bond. The defender of the bond is responsible for a review of the evidence, scrutiny of the briefs, examination of witnesses, and maintenance of proper procedures during the trial. The defender also deals with some situations concerning the content of the litigation rather than the legal procedures.

Diocesan Consultors

The standard term for a territorial division of the Church, entrusted to a bishop who rules in his own name as local ordinary, and not as a delegate of another. The chief diocese of a province is an archdiocese. It is headed by an archbishop. A diocese is usually limited to a definite territory so that it comprises all the faithful who inhabit that territory. [Cf. cc. 369 and 372, #1] In Eastern-rite churches, the term eparchy is used.

The Syriac, Syro-Malabar and Russian churches are also represented but without a bishop member since they presently have no established hierarchy in the United States.

Most parishes are formed on a geographic basis, but they may be formed along national or ethnic lines.

All other bishops in the Latin Rite, even those with the honorary title of "Patriarch," are subject to him.Similarly, patriarchs within nations have only an honorary title unless special provisions are made otherwise. Eastern-rite Patriarchs are subject to the Pope while serving as heads of the faithful belonging to their rites throughout the world.

Personal Prelature

In addition to the territorial arrangement of the Church into particular or local churches or dioceses, canon law also provides for non-territorial areas of religious jurisdiction, incorporating secular clergy and deacons. Membership is also open to lay persons. These prelatures are established to meet specific pastoral or missionary needs at the regional, national, or international level without infringing on the rights of the local bishops. A prelature is presided over by a personal prelate, who is an ordinary with the right to establish seminaries and ordain priests as members of the prelature. Canon law also allows for laity to be associated in the works of prelatures without being withdrawn from the jurisdiction of their own diocesan bishop. Personal prelatures are jurisdictional structures of a secular type which are established by the Holy See as an instrument within the hierarchical pastoral work of the Church to carry out special pastoral or missionary tasks. Personal prelatures are based on the principle of insertion into the local Church. In this they differ essentially from the personal dioceses, such as those constituted for the faithful of a particular rite, which are based on the principle of independence or autonomy in regard to local Churches.

Vatican II provided for setting up personal prelatures (see Decree, Presbyterorum ordinis, no. 10). Additional norms were established in subsequent pontifical legislation (see Motu proprio Ecclesiae Sanctae no. 1, no. 4, August 6, 1966 and the Apostolic Constitution Regimini Ecclesiae Universae, no. 49, no. 1, Aug. 15, 1967). General legislation concerning personal prelatures is contained in canons 294 to 297 of the 1983 Code of Canon Law.

Personal prelatures are to be established by the Holy See after hearing the views of the respective Episcopal Conferences (can. 294). They are governed by a Prelate according to statutes given by the Holy See. The Prelate is their proper Ordinary, who may incardinate priests and must look after their spiritual and temporal welfare (can. 295). Lay people can dedicate themselves by means of a contractual agreement, to the apostolic activities of the prelature; the statutes are to specify the manner of this organic cooperation (can. 296). And the statutes are also to determine the relations of the prelature with the Ordinaries of the places in which the prelature works, with the prior consent of the Ordinaries (can. 297).

Presbyteral Council

Religious Priest/Diocesan Priest

Religious, or regular, priests are those who are professed members of a religious order or institute. Religious clergy live according to the rule of their respective orders. They commit to serving their congregations and other institutions.

Retreats may take various forms, from traditional closed forms, to open retreats, which do not disengage the participants from day-to-day life. Scholastic Teaching

Usually refers to Scholastic Philosophy, which is the basis for much Catholic Theology. It comes from the canonical "schools" of the 12th-13th centuries, St. Thomas Aquinas, St. Bonaventure, St. Albert the Great, etc., who developed "scholasticism" based mainly on Aristotle. It is the semi-official philosophy of the Church.

Secular Institute

Canonically erected institute of consecrated life for single laity and clerics who strive for the perfection of charity and work for the sanctification of the world while remaining in a lifestyle within the world.

See

The word is taken from the Latin word "sedes" ("seat"), and is used to denote a diocese or ecclesiastical district. The term Holy See is reserved to the diocese of Rome whose bishop is the Pope. U.S. Territorial Sees are dioceses located on territory of the United States of America, but are members of episcopal conferences other than the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops.

Seminary

An educational institution for men preparing for Holy Orders. The term originates from the time of St. Augustine, when those preparing for the priesthood were educated in the "cathedral school." During the Middle Ages, the clergy were educated in a university setting where faculties of philosophy, theology, and canon law existed. Eventually individual dioceses or provinces came to establish their own schools for educating their clerical students. Traditional seminaries date from the Council of Trent in the 16th century.

A school for the spiritual, academic, and pastoral education and formation of priesthood candidates is known as a major seminary in which the focus is on philosophical and theological education. To prepare for entrance into a major seminary, a period of study is set aside for the required courses in the humanities and the sciences in institutions called minor seminaries.

Serra Club

Sodality

A tribunal (court) is the name given to the person or persons who exercise the Church's judicial powers. By its very nature, this procedure involves the determination of a legal controversy. A major concern of tribunals is conducting the process leading to the dissolution or annulment of marriages. In ecclesiastical matters, definite procedural norms for conducting a trial are found in the Code of Canon Law to settle disputes. There are various grades of tribunals, including diocesan tribunals, the first court of trial for most cases; regional and metropolitan tribunals, located in an archdiocese, the appellate court for all cases tried within the province; and the tribunals of the Holy See, which act as the Church's central appellate court, try cases reserved to the Holy See, deal with questions of procedure and jurisdiction of the other courts, and act as the Church's supreme court.

United States Conference of Catholic Bishops

The United States Conference of Catholic Bishops is a permanent institute composed of Catholic bishops of the United States of America in and through which the bishops exercise in a communal or collegial manner the pastoral mission entrusted to them by the Lord Jesus of sanctification, teaching, and leadership, especially by devising forms and methods of the apostolate suitably adapted to the circumstances of the times. Such exercise is intended to offer appropriate assistance to each bishop in fulfilling his particular ministry in the local Church, to effect a commonality of ministry addressed to the people of the United States of America, and to foster and express communion with the Church in other nations within the Church universal, under the leadership of its chief pastor, The Pope.

This priest must have a graduate degree in canon law. He is called the judicial vicar, and is sometimes referred to as the chief judge or officialis. He may be given another priest as an assistant with the title of adjutant judicial vicar.

A bishop or priest appointed to participate in the executive (administrative) governance of the diocese with executive jurisdiction as a deputy of the diocesan bishop is a vicar general. The appointment of a vicar general is mandatory for every diocese. This office is designed to facilitate and unify diocesan administration.

Vicar for Religious

A priest appointed by a bishop to act as his representative in dealing with the religious communities in his diocese.

PART I

HIERARCHY OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH

The Hierarchy, as the supreme governing body of the Catholic Church, consists of the Roman Pontiff, the successor of Peter, and the Bishops joined together with him and never without him (canons 330,331,336) in one apostolic college to provide for the common good of the Church. The Roman Pontiff in the exercise of his office is assisted by the College of Cardinals, and further by the departments also called "dicasteries" of the Roman Curia. The Bishops, of whom some bear the titles of Patriarch and Archbishop, are united with the Roman Pontiff in the governance of the whole Church; the Bishops, when assigned to particular Sees, are individually responsible for the teaching, sanctification and governance of their particular Church. Apostolic Vicars and Prefects together with certain Abbots and other Prelates are also joined in this work.

Bishop of Rome and Vicar of Jesus Christ, Successor of St. Peter, Prince of the Apostles, Supreme Pontiff of the Universal Church. Primate of Italy. Archbishop and Metropolitan of the Roman Province, Sovereign of Vatican City State. Servant of the Servants of God.

The present successor of St. Peter was born in Buenos Aires on December 17, 1936; ordained for the Jesuits on December 13, 1969; appointed Auxiliary Bishop of Buenos Aires on May 20, 1992, receiving Episcopal consecration on June 27, 1992; appointed Coadjutor Archbishop of Buenos Aires on June 3, 1997 and succeeded Cardinal Antonio Quarracino on February 28, 1998; Created and proclaimed Cardinal by Saint John Paul II in the consistory of February 21, 2001. Elected Pope, March 13, 2013; installed March 19, 2013.February 21, 2001. Elected Pope, March 13, 2013; installed March 19, 2013.

HIS HOLINESS THE POPE FRANCIS

JORGE MARIO BERGOGLIO, S.J.

VATICAN CITY

Vatican City is the smallest state in the world, occupying 108.7 acres, of which about one third is covered with buildings and is situated on the right side of the Tiber River. Vatican City has territory, population, and sovereignty. This territory, limited as it is, suffices to guarantee the spiritual and temporal independence needed for the exercise of the Holy See's spiritual mission. In 1870 the Kingdom of Italy seized all Vatican possessions which for several centuries had constituted the papal temporal domain. But even after 1870 the Holy See continued to regard itself as a separate entity in international law, and was recognized as such by numerous states with which it retained normal diplomatic relations. After long discussions the Holy See and the then Kingdom of Italy signed the Lateran Pacts on February 11, 1929, so that the complete and independent authority of the Vatican State was and is recognized by the Italian state.

The Sovereign of this small state is His Holiness, the Pope.

The government presently is administered by a Pontifical Commission of which His Eminence Giuseppe Cardinal Bertello is President.

The government presently is administered by a Pontifical Commission of which His Eminence Giuseppe Cardinal Bertello is President.

THE COLLEGE OF CARDINALS

The Cardinals constitute a special college and they assist the Roman Pontiff collegially when they are called together to deal with questions of major importance; they do so individually when they assist the Pope especially in the daily care of the universal Church by means of the different offices which they perform (canons 349-350). The Cardinals who are under eighty years of age elect his successor.

The College of Cardinals is divided into three ranks: Cardinal-Bishops, Cardinal-Priests, and Cardinal-Deacons. The College of Cardinals, when complete formerly consisted of 70 members: 6 Cardinal Bishops, 50 Cardinal Priests and 14 Cardinal Deacons, but the late Pontiffs, Pope John XXIII and Pope Paul VI enlarged the College of Cardinals. At the moment the maximum number of Cardinal electors (those under 80 years of age) must not exceed 120.

The Cardinal Bishops (except the Patriarch-Cardinals of the Oriental Rites), have as Titular Sees the Suburban Sees of Rome, which are: Porto Santa Rufina, Albano, Palestrina, Sabina, Frascati, Velletri, Segni. The Cardinal Dean has united to his See the See of Ostia. The Cardinal Priests take their title from the Titular Churches to which they are appointed: the Cardinal Deacons are appointed to other Churches called Deaconries. The first Cardinal Bishop is Dean; the first Cardinal Priest is First Priest; and the first Cardinal Deacon is First Deacon of the Sacred College. The Dean has the right of ordaining the new Pope if he is not already a bishop; the First Deacon has the right of proclaiming him and investing him with the sacred Pallium. On the death of the Pontiff, the Cardinal Camerlengo has the Administration of the affairs of the Holy See.

Sometimes the Roman Pontiff promotes a person to the dignity of Cardinal but does not make public his name and keeps it in pectore. Upon the publication of his name, this Cardinal enjoys his right of precedence from the day on which his name was reserved in pectore by the Pope (cfr. Can. 351¶ 3).

The Roman Curia

The present norms regarding the Roman Curia were publicly announced June 28, 1988, in the Pastor Bonus - Constitutio Apostolica de Romana Curia, and published in A.A.S. LXXX/1988, Commentarium Officiale; pp. 841-934. The Supreme Pontiff usually conducts business of the universal Church by means of the Roman Curia, which fulfills its duty in his name and by his authority for the good and the service of the Churches; it consists of the Secretariat of State or the Papal Secretariat, congregations, tribunals and other institutions, whose structure and competency are defined in special law (can. 360). The Roman curia is the complex of departments and institutes which assist the Roman Pontiff in the exercise of his supreme pastoral function for the good and service of the universal Church and of the particular churches, by which the unity of faith and communion of the people of God is strengthened and the mission is promoted which is proper to the Church in the world.

I. SECRETARIAT OF STATE

The Secretariat of State

The Secretariat of State is the dicastery of the Roman Curia which works most closely with the Supreme Pontiff in the exercise of his universal mission (Pastor Bonus, Art. 39). The Secretariat of State is presided over by a Cardinal who assumes the title of Secretary of State. As the Pope's first Collaborator in the governance of the universal Church, the Cardinal Secretary of State is the one primarily responsible for the diplomatic and political activity of the Holy See, in some circumstances representing the person of the Supreme Pontiff himself.

The Secretariat of State includes two sections, namely: the First Section that is headed by an Archbishop, the Substitute for General Affairs, assisted by a Prelate, the Assessor for General Affairs; and the Second Section of the Secretariat of State headed by an Archbishop, the Secretary for Relations with States, aided by a Prelate, the Under-Secretary for Relations with States, and assisted by Cardinals and Bishops.

Secretary of State: His Eminence Pietro Cardinal Parolin.

Office: Apostolic Palace, 00120 Vatican City State, Europe. Tel: 06-69.88.39.13; Fax: 06-69.88.52.55

First Section: For General Affairs

In conformity with Arts. 41-44 of Pastor Bonus, the Section for General Affairs or the First Section is responsible for handling matters regarding the everyday service of the Supreme Pontiff, both in caring for the universal Church and in dealing with the dicasteries of the Roman Curia. It attends to the preparation of whatever documents the Holy Father entrusts to it. It enacts the provisions for appointments within the Roman Curia and keeps custody of the Lead Seal and the Fisherman's Ring. It regulates the duties and activity of the Holy See's Representatives, especially in relation to the local Churches. It attends to all that concerns the Embassies accredited to the Holy See. It supervises the Holy See's official communication agencies and is responsible for publishing the "Acta Apostolicae Sedis" and the "Annuario Pontificio".

Substitute: Most Rev. Archbishop Angelo Becciu.

Assessor: Rev. Msgr. Paolo Borgia.

Office: Apostolic Palace, 00120 Vatican City State, Europe. Tel: 06.69.88.34.38; Fax: 06.69.88.52.41; Email: sostituto@sds.va.

Second Section: For Relations with States

On the basis of Arts. 45-47 of Pastor Bonus, the Section for Relations with States or Second Section has the specific duty of attending to matters which involve civil governments. It has responsibility for the Holy See's diplomatic relations with States, including the establishing of Concordats or similar agreements; for the Holy See's presence in international organizations and conferences; in special circumstances, by order of the Supreme Pontiff and in consultation with the competent dicasteries of the Curia, provides for appointments to particular Churches, and for their establishment or modification; in close collaboration with the Congregation for Bishops, it attends to the appointment of Bishops in countries which have entered into treaties or agreements with the Holy See in accordance with the norms of international law.

Secretary: Most Rev. Archbishop Paul Richard Gallagher.

Undersecretary: Rev. Msgr. Antoine Camilleri.

Office: Apostolic Palace, 00120 Vatican City State, Europe. Tel: 06.69.88.30.14; Fax: 06.69.88.53.64; E-mail: rapportistati@sds.va.

II. CONGREGATIONS

By the name of department (dicasteria) is understood: the congregations, tribunals, councils and offices, namely the Apostolic Camera, the Administration of the Patrimony of the Apostolic See, and the Prefecture of Economic Affairs of the Holy See. The departments are juridically equal among themselves. Attached to the institutes of the Roman Curia are the Prefecture of the Papal Household and the Office of Liturgical Celebrations of the Supreme Pontiff.

The Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith

The proper function of the Congregation on the Doctrine of the Faith is to promote and safeguard the doctrine of faith and morals in the whole Catholic world; therefore, those things belong to it which touch this matter in any way. Fulfilling the function of promoting doctrine, it fosters studies in order that the understanding of the faith might grow and that a response can be prepared under the light of faith for new questions arising from developments in science and human culture. It is a help to bishops, whether individually or gathered in assemblies, in the exercise of the function by which they are constituted authentic teachers and doctors of the faith as well as the office by which they are held to safeguard and promote the integrity of that faith. This Sacred Congregation reproves doctrines opposed to the principles of the faith after the interested Bishops of a region have been heard. It studies the books referred to it and, if necessary, reproves them after the author has been heard and has had an opportunity to defend himself and after the Ordinary has been forewarned. It also examines whatever concerns "the privilege of the faith" whether in law and in fact. It is competent to pass judgment on errors about the faith according to the norms of an ordinary process. It safeguards the dignity of the sacrament of Penance. The Congregation proceeds administratively or judicially according to the nature of the question to be treated.

Prefect: Most Rev. Archbishop Luis Francisco Ladaria Ferrer, S.J.

Secretary: Most Rev. Archbishop Giacomo Morandi

Adjunct Secretary: Most Rev. Archbishop Joseph Augustine DI NOIA, O.P.

Undersecretary: Rev. Matteo Visioli

The Congregation for the Oriental Churches

This Congregation considers those matters, whether regarding persons or things, which touch on the Eastern Catholic Churches. It treats all questions which pertain either to persons, or to discipline, or to the rites of the Oriental Churches, even if they are mixed in that by the nature of the thing or of persons they involve Latins. Territories in which a major part of the Christians belong to Oriental rites are subject only to this Congregation. Even in Latin territories it carefully supervises the faithful of Oriental rites and provides as much as possible for their spiritual needs even by the establishment of their own hierarchy if the number of faithful and circumstances require this.

Prefect: His Eminence Leonardo Cardinal Sandri.

Secretary: Most Rev. Archbishop Cyril Vasil, S.J.

Undersecretary: Rev. Lorenzo Lorusso, O.P.

Office: Via della Conciliazione 34, 00193 Rome, Italy. Tel: 06.69.88.42.81; E-mail: cco@orientchurch.va.

The Congregation for Divine Worship and the Discipline of the Sacraments

This congregation does those things which pertain to the Apostolic See as to the moderation and promotion of the sacred liturgy, especially the sacraments, with due regard for the competence of the Congregation on Doctrine of the Faith. It fosters and safeguards the discipline of the sacraments, especially what pertains to their valid and licit celebration; moreover, it concedes favors and dispensations for matters which are not contained in the facilities of diocesan bishops in this line. It alone examines the non-consummation of a marriage and the presence of causes for the granting of a dispensation and everything connected with them. It has competence with regard to the obligations connected with major orders and it examines questions about the validity of sacred ordination.

The Catholic Church in the United States

The organizational structure of the Catholic Church in the United States consists of 33 Provinces with as many Archdioceses (Metropolitan Sees); 149 Suffragan Sees (Dioceses); The Military Archdiocese; four Eastern-Rite jurisdictions immediately subject to the Holy See in Rome. The Eparchies of St. Maron (Maronites), Newton (Melkites), St. Thomas the Apostle of Detroit (Chaldeans) and St. George Martyr of Canton, Ohio (Romanians), St. Thomas of Chicago of the Syro-Malabarians. Each of these jurisdictions is under the direction of an Archbishop and Bishop called an Ordinary, who has apostolic responsibility and authority for the pastoral service of the people in his care.

The structure includes the territorial episcopal conference known as the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops. In and through this body, which is strictly ecclesiastical and has defined juridical authority, the Bishops exercise their collegiate pastorate over the Church in the entire country.

Related to the USCCB is the civil corporation and operational secretariat through which the Bishops, in cooperation with other members of the Church, act on a wider-than-ecclesiastical scale for the good of the Church and society in the United States.

United States Conference of Catholic Bishops

Address—3211 Fourth St., N.E., Washington, DC 20017-1194. Tel: 202-541-3000; Web Site: www.usccb.org.

The United States Conference of Catholic Bishops is a permanent institute composed of Catholic bishops of the United States of America in and through which the bishops exercise in a communal or collegial manner the pastoral mission entrusted to them by the Lord Jesus of sanctification, teaching, and leadership, especially by devising forms and methods of the apostolate suitably adapted to the circumstances of the times. Such exercise is intended to offer appropriate assistance to each bishop in fulfilling his particular ministry in the local Church, to effect a commonality of ministry addressed to the people of the United States of America, and to foster and express communion with the Church in other nations within the Church universal, under the leadership of its chief pastor, the Pope.

Catholic Relief Services is the official international humanitarian agency of the Catholic community in the United States. CRS alleviates suffering and provides assistance to people in need in nearly 93 countries, without regard to race, religion or nationality.
CRS was founded in 1943 by the bishops of the United States to assist the poor and disadvantaged outside this country — helping people in need for more than 70 years.
CRS is efficient and effective directing more than 92 percent of the agency's expenditures directly to programs that benefit the poor overseas. Our agency touches nearly 100 million lives, by addressing the root causes and effects of poverty, promoting human dignity, and helping to build more just and peaceful societies.
Our relief and development work is accomplished through programs of emergency response, HIV, health, agriculture, education, microfinance and peace building.
We serve Catholics in the United States by inviting them to live out their faith as part of one human family.
